

300 Divorce #2

I have received quite a few inquires about this subject, and I feel that this letter that I sent to someone, answers all the questions I have been ask.

=====

We have been praying for You and I just feel led to share a little with you.

As you know, I am a bible believing Christian that believes the bible is the written infallible word of God, and there is no human problem that is not covered in God's word. In order to receive the blessings and benefits designated for ALL his children. You must believe that Jesus is who he says he is and that he is a resurrected saviour.

Hebrews 11:6* But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.

The things I write are truth and are spiritually understood, but if one try's to understand on your own, without asking God to give you the understanding, it won't make total sense.

1Corinthians 2:14* But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned.

A family problem usually takes two, in other words there is two sides to each problem. Now as I have said many times before, we have to be honest with oneself. If we are, one thing we will find is that if we look back at the things that caught our attention and love for our spouse is still there. Love does not die nor does it change, we change due to our desires because we listen to society and the natural mans words instead of the Lord and his word.

The bible says that ONLY by PRIDE comes contention, (proverbs 13:10) in other words, we go by our feelings. Everything revolves around how I feel, when one first got married, usually you kept those negative feelings to yourself so as not to offend your partner. That is what is missing in todays society, there is no thought about what your partner wants or needs. Unless of course it's about political correctness or a racist issue.

We have to be willing to share our feelings with our spouse and that way we learn what things makes them happy or unhappy. The story below is so true to life

The biggest factor in our delusion is:

Soon after the wedding vows are made we seem to want to change our spouse into what we think we want and when/if this happens, we don't like them.

WHY ? They are not what we fell in love with !!

She married him because he was such a "strong man"

She divorced him because he was such a "dominating male."

He married her because she was so "fragile and petite."

He divorced her because she was so "weak and helpless."

She married him because "he knows how to provide a good living."

She divorced him because "all he thinks about is business."

He married her because "she reminds me of my mother."

He divorced her because "she's getting more like her mother every day."

She married him because he was "happy and romantic."

She divorced him because he was "shiftless and fun-loving."

He married her because she was "steady and sensible."

He divorced her because she was "boring and dull."

She married him because he was "the life of the party."

She divorced him because "he never wants to come home from a party."

You see, marriage is a commitment and a choice, it's not a fairytale, you have to work at it and if your honest with yourself. You'll see that the good times outweigh the bad. Marriage is not 50/50, it is giving 100% and if a person will grasp and understand this, true happiness will follow.

Just sensed I should share this

Bro. Ken. <http://burningbushcrusades.com/>